Course Scope, Mission, and Learning Outcomes

One of an organization's most important resources is its talent. Aligning talent with business strategy is critical to an organization's ability to create a competitive advantage. The human resource management function can help an organization achieve this through the appropriate and effective identification, allocation, and retention of talent. Decisions such as whom to hire, how much to pay, what training to offer, and how to evaluate employees can affect an organization's ability to distinguish itself from its competitors and realize added value through its people. This is an overview course that is intended to introduce students to human resource management.

1. To develop a basic understanding of the different human resource management practices.
2. To understand the role of the human resource management function in an organization.
3. To develop an understanding of how to align human resource practices with an organization's business strategy.
4. To analyze current events and organizational challenges from the perspective of a Human Resources professional.
5. To strengthen your communication, analysis, and research skills.

Course Materials

Readings

1. Textbook (online OR hard copy available through U of T bookstore using the links provided in Quercus): Managing Human Resources (2023, 10th Canadian Edition). Belcourt, Singh, Snell, & Morris. Cengage.
2. The other course material is available on-line through Quercus and Ivey Publishing as detailed in the class schedule. It is important that you read all cases before class.

These materials are available through Ivey Publishing and will cost a total of $21.15 for the digital download. The use of these materials complies with all University of Toronto policies, which govern fees for course materials.

Evaluation and Grades

Grades are a measure of the knowledge and skills developed by a student within individual courses. Each student will receive a grade on the basis of how well they have command of the course materials, skills and learning objectives of the course.

Work		Due Date
Course Contribution	3%	Ongoing
Research Credit	3%	See course outline & Quercus course page
Term Test #1	12%	(online through Quercus Quizzes)
Term Test #2	25%	(online through Quercus Quizzes)
Term Test #3	25%	(online through Quercus Quizzes)
Written Group Project: HRM Profile Submission	32%	December 6 by 11:59pm Submitted via Quercus

Course Format and Expectations

1. Finish assigned readings, exercises, and class preparation. This is important because you cannot analyze cases, participate in exercises, or explore your reasoning without first acquiring the knowledge from the assigned material.
2. Help create and maintain a positive class experience through your active and thoughtful contribution to the class discussion, commitment to the course, and participation in group work activities.
3. Complete and submit graded assignments before the deadline.
4. Stay engaged and informed. Take initiative to communicate with your instructor as needed.

Course Contribution (3%)

The course activities include in-class discussion, exercises, case analyses, group work, among other activities. All of these will be taken into consideration when computing your grade on this component. It is recommended that students attend the class sessions and complete the required preparation prior to and/or after class as indicated.

Course contribution is evaluated on quality and not quantity. Contributions that are insightful, interesting, and/or thoughtful and that contribute in a positive way to the learning environment will be rewarded. You will lose points for disruptive or disrespectful behavior that contributes to a negative class experience.

Term Test #1 (12%), Term Test #2 (25%), Term Test #3 (25%)

The term tests are open book and will take place online as per the class schedule. They will cover material from the readings, assignments, lectures, and asynchronous components. Practice questions and other information to help you prepare for the tests will be posted in Quercus.

Support is available through the RC Centre for Professional Skills (CPS) for students who would like help or feedback on their writing or speaking (presentations). CPS offers both individual and group appointments with trained writing instructors and presentation coaches who are familiar with the RC program and common types of business assignments. You can also access your college Writing Centres for help with written assignments.

You can book an appointment with a writing or presentation coach through the RC Centre for Professional Skills Writing Centre. For more information about writing centres, student supports, and study resources, see the Writing and Presentation Coaching academic support page.

Research Requirement (3%)

Marketing and Organizational Behaviour researchers run experimental studies to test theories about human behaviour. The research requirement in this course is intended to supplement the course material by giving you direct exposure to research in these fields. You may fulfill this requirement by:

1. Participation in three hours (credits) of research studies, or
2. Analysis of three articles that report research studies, or
3. A combination of research studies and article analyses

Additional information about how to fulfill this requirement will be posted in a separate document on the portal.

Written Group Project: HRM Profile (32%)

Students are to work in groups of about five to complete the HRM Profile. You will have the choice of forming your own group or to be randomly assigned to a group by the instructor. Groups are to choose an organization to profile from an HRM perspective and to prepare a written report to be submitted through Quercus. All members of the group must contribute to the project including the final report.

Students are to gather information about the company's strategy, recruitment and selection practices, performance management systems, turnover rates, compensation and incentives, employee training and development programs, etc. Some of this information will be available in public company materials (e.g., company website, press releases, or newsletters to investors). Because access to HRM information may sometimes be difficult, you are encouraged to profile a company that you have special access to (e.g., your own former or current employer or that of your friend or family member). The written project should summarize the company's HRM practices and how they are related to its overall business strategy. The written project should also explain the largest HRM challenges faced by the organization, as well as some recommendations for how to address the challenges. Many companies and industries experienced and are still experiencing HRM challenges related to the COVID-19 pandemic. You are encouraged to learn about these challenges and to incorporate them into your analysis and report as warranted.

The written project should be no longer than 1,750 words and will be graded on five criteria: introduction and overview; link to business strategy, breadth and depth of coverage of HRM practices, challenges and recommendations, report quality and professionalism. Information and tips for preparing the written report and the grading criteria will be posted on Quercus.

To ensure that you are on the right track for the written group project, there are two submissions in advance of the final project due date, which will count towards project grade.

- Submit the following information on Quercus by 11:59pm on October 6: group member names, name of company, and explain your connection to the company. Only one group member needs to submit this information.
- Submit the following information on Quercus by 11:59pm on November 15: detailed project outline where group member names are assigned to each specific part of the project, with deadlines for completion of each part, and with suggested sources (e.g., readings, online resources, interviews/meetings, among other potential sources) that will be considered for project. Only one group member needs to submit it but it needs to be signed by all members.

All groups submit their final written report on Quercus by 11:59pm on December 6. Only one group member needs to submit it.

Learning to work together in teams is a crucial transferrable skill you will use not only in your coursework, but also in your future careers. Support is available if you encounter common teamwork challenges such as:

- Team members feeling left out of the team.
- Team members not responding in a timely manner to communication.
- Division or quality of work among team members being unequal or unfair.

Consult the Centre for Professional Skills Teamwork Resources page for tips, strategies, and best practices. You can also book an appointment with a teamwork mentor through the RC Centre for Professional Skills Writing Centre. Teamwork mentors can help you resolve or mitigate conflict, strategize on planning, or improve team communication.

If you are a student registered with Accessibility Services, and extensions are one of your academic accommodations, consult with your Accessibility Advisor about the teamwork in this course.

Missed Tests and Assignments (including mid-term and final-term assessments)

Students who miss a test or assignment for reasons entirely beyond their control (e.g. illness) may request special consideration.

In such cases, students must:

1. Notify the instructor AND the Rotman Commerce Program Office on the date of the missed course deliverable, e.g. missed test, final assessments, assignment or class (in the case of participation marks).
2. Complete a Request for Special Consideration Form and submit it along with your Absence Declaration on ACORN (please read the instructions on how to use the Absence Declaration in ACORN) within 2 business days of the originally scheduled course deliverable.

Students who do not provide this information will be given a grade of 0 (zero) for the missed course deliverable.

If students miss a term test for unavoidable reasons, a make-up test will be scheduled at a day and time determined by the professor. If the reason for the missed test persists such that a makeup test is not feasible an alternative arrangement will be made.

Late Assignments

All assignments are due on the date and at the time specified in Quercus. Late submissions will normally be penalized if the assignment is not received on the specified date, at the specified time. A penalty of 10% per day will be applied. Students who, for reasons beyond their control, are unable to submit an assignment by its deadline must obtain approval from the instructor for an extension. Supporting documentation will be required as per the policy on missed tests and assignments.

Statement on Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

The University of Toronto is committed to equity, human rights and respect for diversity. All members of the learning environment in this course should strive to create an atmosphere of mutual respect where all members of our community can express themselves, engage with each other, and respect one another's differences. U of T does not condone discrimination or harassment against any persons or communities.

Commitment to Accessibility

The University is committed to inclusivity and accessibility, and strives to provide support for, and facilitate the accommodation of, individuals with disabilities so that all may share the same level of access to opportunities and activities offered at the University.

If you require accommodations for a temporary or ongoing disability or health concern, or have any accessibility concerns about the course, the classroom or course materials, please email Accessibility Services or visit the Accessibility Services website for more information as soon as possible. Obtaining your accommodation letter may take up to several weeks, so get in touch with them as soon as possible. If you have general questions or concerns about the accessibility of this course, you are encouraged to reach out to your instructor, course coordinator, or Accessibility Services.

Academic Integrity

Academic Integrity is a fundamental value essential to the pursuit of learning and scholarship at the University of Toronto. Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in this academic community ensures that the U of T degree that you earn will continue to be valued and respected as a true signifier of a student's individual work and academic achievement. As a result, the University treats cases of academic misconduct very seriously.

The University of Toronto's Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters outlines the behaviours that constitute academic misconduct, the process for addressing academic offences and the penalties that may be imposed. You are expected to be familiar with the contents of this document. Potential offences include, but are not limited to:

In papers and assignments

- Using someone else's ideas or words without appropriate acknowledgement.
- Submitting your own work in more than one course without the permission of the instructor.
- Making up sources or facts.
- Obtaining or providing unauthorized assistance on any assignment (this includes collaborating with others on assignments that are supposed to be completed individually).

On test and exams

- Using or possessing any unauthorized aid, including a cell phone.
- Looking at someone else's answers.
- Misrepresenting your identity.
- Submitting an altered test for re-grading.

Misrepresentation

- Falsifying institutional documents or grades.
- Falsifying or altering any documentation required by the University, including (but not limited to) medical notes.

All suspected cases of academic dishonesty will be investigated by the procedures outlined in the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters. If you have any question about what is or is not permitted in the course, please do not hesitate to contact the course instructor. If you have any questions about appropriate research and citation methods, you are expected to seek out additional information from the instructor or other U of T or RC resources such as the RC Centre for Professional Skills, the College Writing Centres or the Academic Success Centre.

Email

At times, the course instructor may decide to communicate important course information by email. As such, all U of T students are required to have a valid UTmail+ email address. You are responsible for ensuring that your UTmail+ email address is set up and properly entered on ACORN. For more information visit the Information Commons Help Desk.

Forwarding your utoronto.ca email to a Gmail or other type of email account is not advisable. In some cases, messages from utoronto.ca addresses sent to Gmail accounts are filtered as junk mail, which means that important messages from your course instructor may end up in your spam or junk mail folder.

Recording Lectures

Lectures and course materials prepared by the instructor are considered by the University to be an instructor's intellectual property covered by the Canadian Copyright Act. Students wishing to record a lecture or other course material in any way are required to ask the instructor's explicit permission and may not do so unless permission is granted. Students who have been previously granted permission to record lectures as an accommodation for a disability are excepted. This includes tape recording, filming, photographing PowerPoint slides, Quercus materials, etc.

If permission for recording is granted by the instructor (or via Accessibility Services), it is intended for the individual student's own study purposes and does not include permission to "publish" them in any way. It is forbidden for a student to publish an instructor's notes to a website or sell them in any other form without formal permission.
